Definition

Conflict Minerals

Conflict Minerals are described as Gold (Au), Tantalum (Ta), Tungsten (W) and Tin (Sn) that are sourced from the Democratic Republic of Congo or adjoining countries from mines controlled by non-governmental military groups.

Statement

MA-Industrie GmbH is a manufacturer of high quality foam packaging.

The company is located in Germany.

Therefore the company and the produced goods are not affected by the Documents mentioned in Chapter „References“.

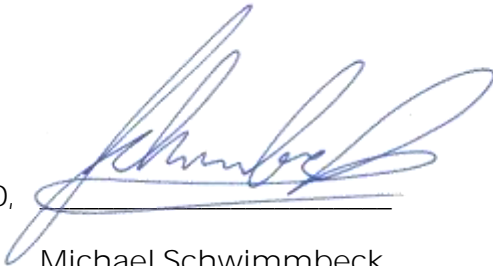

Nevertheless, MA-Industrie GmbH supports the efforts to ensure a fair and sustainable supply chain.

Based upon currently available information, MA-Industrie GmbH does not process any conflict minerals as aforementioned in Chapter „Definition | Conflict Minerals“.

All of our suppliers are regularly asked to provide a corresponding statement.
